THE BIRTH OF INTERCOLLEGIATE FOOTBALL

Rutgers pioneered American intercollegiate football in a historic game played with Princeton on November 6, 1869 on a plot of ground where the present-day Rutgers gymnasium stands in New Brunswick.

Football in its embryonic state bore little resemblance to its modern version. Playing under primitive rules, with 25 men making up each team, the original Scarlet "eleven" defeated the invading Princeton squad, 6 to 4.

The challenge for the original game was issued by Rutgers, partly in the hope of gaining revenge for a 40-2 baseball defeat which had been suffered by the Scarlet at the hands of Princeton in 1866. Princeton accepted the challenge and compromise rules were agreed upon since the rival institutions had been playing the game on an intra-mural basis under different codes.

Employed in the first game were the crude beginnings of such later bits of strategy as the flying wedge, sleepers, and the first incident of a harried player who in his excitement kicked the ball toward the wrong goal. And out of the first season—an abbreviated affair which included the initial game and a return contest at Princeton a week later—came the first administrative cry of "over-emphasis". A third game was scheduled in 1869 after Princeton had won the second contest, but the rubber affair was cancelled by joint action of the two college administrations on the grounds that football was interfering with study.

Like most innovations, football was frowned upon by some who witnessed the first game. A crotchety Rutgers professor who observed the action for a few minutes with mounting indignation, finally could contain his wrath no longer. Waving his umbrella at the participants, he shouted:

"You men will come to no Christian end."

The old prof was wrong. No less than seven of the 25 original Rutgers gridgers later became ministers of the gospel.

In later years, a controversy developed over the fate of the Princeton team following the game's end. One of the Tiger players, the late William Preston Lane, contended in a newspaper interview in 1933 that Rutgers "ran us Princeton men out of town. I never found out why they did that," he related. "But we didn't ask any questions. When we saw them coming after us, we ran to the outskirts of New Brunswick and got into our carriages and wagons and went away as fast as we could."

Lane's contention is refuted by accounts which appeared in contemporary newspapers. The Daily Fredonian, New Brunswick paper of that era, described the post-game proceedings in its issue of November 8, 1869 as follows:

"Through the generous liberality of the students of Rutgers College, a bountiful entertainment was prepared for our Princeton friends at the favorite resort in Church Street known as Northrop's, where 'mine host' and his estimable lady know how to get up a good supper."

Regardless of what actually did happen following the first game, football was here to stay. Rutgers got Columbia started in the grid sport the following season and in a few years most of the East's colleges and universities were represented on the gridiron.

THE RUTGERS COACHING STAFF

Harvey J. Harman, Head Coach

HARVEY HARMAN, now starting his second post-war season as pilot of Rutgers gridiron destinies, coached his first Scarlet team in 1938. Since then, with time out during four seasons spent on leave of absence as an officer in the U. S. Naval Reserve, he has led Rutgers elevens to a brilliant record of 33 wins, nine losses and one tie.

Harman has been directly associated with the gridiron sport since the age of 13, first at a player and later as a coach and administrator. He started his football career at New Castle (Pa.) High School and later played fullback at Peabody High School in Pittsburgh. Harman entered the University of Pittsburgh in 1918 and immediately won a starting berth as a tackle under the famed Glenn (Pop) Warner. During four years at Pitt, he was absent from the starting lineup only twice, and won recognition on several All-American teams. As an undergraduate, he also won his varsity letter in track and served as president of his class in his junior and senior years. He received his A.B. degree from Pitt in 1922 and launched his coaching career in the Fall of that year as head football mentor at Haverford College. Meanwhile he continued his studies at the University of Pennsylvania until receiving his master's degree in government from that institution.

Harman remained at Haverford until 1930 when he became athletic director and coach of football and track at Sewanee. A year later he went to Penn where he remained as head football coach until resigning in December, 1937. His appointment at Rutgers followed.

In 1938, his first season "On the Banks", his Scarlet gridders defeated Princeton in a famous 20-18 victory which dedicated the present Rutgers Stadium. The only loss in his initial season was to N. Y. U. The following season, Harman's eleven lost only to Brown. In 1940, the Scarlet lost three games, and in 1941 lost two, ending that season by avenging the 1939 defeat by Brown.

Following the outbreak of the war, Harman laid aside his coaching uniform for the blue of an officer in the Naval Reserve. He left the campus in the Spring of 1942, served as director of athletics at North Carolina Pre-Flight at Chapel Hill, was transferred to a similar post at Iowa Pre-Flight, and later saw combat duty aboard one of the Navy's largest carriers in the Pacific. He was a full commander at the time of his return to Rutgers late in 1945.

Last season, his Scarlet eleven won seven out of nine games and listed a 13-0 upset triumph over previously-unbeaten Harvard among the victories. Most of the material of last year's squad is back with the husky strategist as he starts his sixth campaign at Rutgers.

Arthur A. Matsu, Backfield Coach

ART MATSU is the senior member of the Rutgers coaching staff in tenure. A member of the athletic department since 1931, Matsu now is starting his fourth season as backfield coach, sharing his duties again this season with Eddie Masavage. As a player, Matsu starred at William and Mary in football, basketball and track. Upon graduation in 1928, he was named freshman football coach at his alma mater, remaining there until coming to Rutgers. He served as varsity assistant at Rutgers until 1936 when he was named freshman mentor. He was with the varsity again in 1937, returned to the freshmen in 1938, served two years as director of athletic publicity, and then received his present appointment on the varsity staff in 1944.

Edward S. Masavage, Backfield Coach

EDDIE MASAVAGE has been associated with Harman almost continuously since 1931, first as a player, then as a coach, later in the service, and now again as a member of Harman's staff. Masavage played two years of varsity football under Harman at Penn, then upon graduation joined Harman's staff as varsity backfield assistant and coach of the Penn 150-pound squad. He came to Rutgers with Harman in 1938 and coached the backfield until entering the Naval Reserve in 1942. For a time he was stationed with Harman at North Carolina Pre-Flight, then went to sea aboard an aircraft carrier. Following his discharge as a lieutenant, Masavage returned to Rutgers and now is starting his second post-war season with the Scarlet backfield candidates.

David T. Bender, Line Coach

DAVE BENDER is a Rutgers product with wide coaching experience. As an undergraduate he climaxed four years of varsity football by playing on the great 1924 eleven, then won All-American lacrosse honors in the Spring of his senior year. Bender coached the University of Mississippi line in 1925-26, after which he returned to his alma mater as line coach for four years. In 1931, he coached the Lafayette College lacrosse team, then returned to Rutgers coaching in 1939 as freshman line mentor. He became head coach of the yearling squad in 1941. With the outbreak of the war he entered the Army Air Forces where he rose to the rank of major while serving overseas with the Fifteenth Air Force. He now is starting his third post-war season as varsity line coach.

Alexander Sabo, ~~End Coach~~ Line Coach

AL SABO, one of Fordham's famed "seven blocks of granite", has been a member of the Rutgers coaching staff since 1936. Sabo is a "home town" athlete from New Brunswick High School. He came to Rutgers as freshman line coach following his graduation from Fordham in 1936, worked with the varsity the following season, returned to the freshmen in 1938 and then moved to his present position with Harman in 1940. Sabo entered the Naval Reserve in 1942, became a lieutenant commander while serving in French Morocco, and returned to Rutgers last season. Before the war, Sabo played professional baseball and was with the Washington Senators in 1937-38.

Otto Hill, Junior Varsity Coach

OTTO HILL, star center on Harman's 1941 Rutgers eleven, succeeds Dick Voliva as coach of the Scarlet Jayvee squad. Following his graduation from Rutgers in 1942, Hill entered the Army Air Forces where he served three years before returning to Rutgers as a graduate student and associate coach. Last Fall he assisted Heinie Benkert with the freshman squad while working toward his master's degree. As an undergraduate, Hill won three varsity football letters and was a member of the lacrosse squad. While in the Army, he played on the strong Maxwell Field eleven as a center in 1944 and with the Hawaii Air Defense team in 1945.

DICK VOLIVA, Rutgers varsity wrestling coach and last season's pilot of the junior varsity football squad, will coach the freshman eleven this Fall. Voliva is a former Olympic wrestler who starred in football, wrestling and track while at Indiana University. After competing in the 1936 Olympics, he was named wrestling coach and assistant football and track coach at New Jersey State Teachers College where he remained until entering the service in 1942. He rose to the rank of major while serving in the ETO. Voliva resigned his position as dean of men and head coach of football and baseball at Teachers College to come to Rutgers in the Fall of 1945. Last Winter he led a relatively inexperienced wrestling team to the Middle Atlantic title.

Richard L. Voliva
—Donald Jones, 150-Pound Coach

DON JONES is another Harman product who has returned to his alma mater. Last season he served with Otto Hill as an associate coach while engaged in graduate work. Jones won honorable mention as an All-American halfback in 1942. Upon graduating in the spring of 1943, he entered the Navy as a bombardier and flew 22 missions against the Japanese from Iwo Jima. Following his discharge he returned to New Brunswick and last season served under Voliva as assistant junior varsity coach. Jones, who weighs a mere 150 pounds, was renowned on the gridiron for his speed and used it to good advantage on the track as well as the football field while in college. He succeeds Don White, varsity basketball coach, who doubled as pilot of the lightweights last Fall.

RUTGERS ATHLETIC ADMINISTRATION

George E. Little, Director of Athletics

GEORGE LITTLE has been a prominent figure in the intercollegiate athletic picture for more than 30 years. He has an enviable record as a player, a coach and an administrator and has been in charge of Rutgers athletics since 1931. Little graduated from Ohio Wesleyan in 1912 after a brilliant football and track career. In 1914-15 he was head coach of football and basketball, assistant track coach and assistant physical director at the University of Cincinnati. He went to Miami (Ohio) University in 1916, left during the first war to serve as an officer overseas, and returned to become director of athletics. He went to Michigan in 1922, becoming head coach of football in 1924. A year later he was appointed director of physical education and head coach of football at Wisconsin. Two years later he resigned as coach to devote full time to administrative duties. He remained at Wisconsin until 1931 when he resigned to accept his present position at Rutgers.

Harry J. Rockafeller, Assistant Director of Athletics

"Rocky" is generally regarded as one of the best known and popular figures associated with Rutgers athletics. Entering Rutgers in 1912, he starred for four years in varsity football, basketball, baseball and track. After serving in the war and engaging in business for several years, he returned to his alma mater in 1924 as graduate manager of Rutgers athletics. Following reorganization of the coaching staff in 1927, he was named head football coach. During four years his teams won 19 and lost 16 games. In 1930 he resigned as coach to devote full time to his managerial duties, but in 1932 went back to coaching as pilot of the 150-pound varsity. His elevens were undefeated in 18 games and won Eastern Intercollegiate titles in 1933, '34 and '35. With the advent of the war, "Rocky" returned to varsity coaching, leading his four war-time teams to a record of 14 wins, 10 losses and one tie.

SCARLET SKETCHES

Ends

- PETER BUTKUS, psychology. Butkus was a member of last Fall's junior varsity squad. Played fullback and tackle at Good Counsel in Newark before settling down to his present end position. Served two years in the Navy.
- JACK GARRABRANT, education. Last season's starting left end. Garrabrant starred at East Orange High School, played two years of football at the University of Washington, then entered Army. Rugged defensive player.
- ROBERT GARDNER, political science. Purple Heart marine officer from Iwo Jima who won his varsity letter at Rutgers last season. Played one year at Hofstra College before the war. Lives with wife in Plainfield, N. J.
- WILLIAM HATCHETT, physical education. An all-state back at Verona High School, Hatchett spent last Fall recovering from a leg operation, starred on the Scarlet basketball five last Winter as high scorer. Fine receiver.
- GEORGE RUDDY, physical education. Another sophomore who is up from the junior varsity. Ruddy played three years of varsity ball at Rahway (N. J.) High School before entering Rutgers last Fall.
- LEWIS SMITH, pre-law. Smith, a member of the Lafayette squad in 1944, will be playing against some of his former teammates this Fall. A product of Phillipsburg High School, Smith spent 10 months in the Navy.
- FRED SOWICK, business administration. Won the starting right end job last season as a freshman. Was an All-State end at New Brunswick High School in 1942, then entered the service and became an Army pilot. Pitched on last Spring's baseball team.

Tackles

- PAUL CORRIGAN, education. Entered Rutgers after two years duty in Navy blimps. Developed rapidly last season after injuries hit the tackle slots and moved him into the starting lineup. Won All-Hudson county honors in 1941.
- HAROLD HERITAGE, dairy manufacture. "Skeets" carried an injury through much of last season, earned a reputation for gritty tenacity. Won his varsity football and wrestling letters at Rutgers in 1942, left for the service, flew 33 missions in bombers in the Pacific, returned last season.
- CARL LENZ, pre-law. Heaviest man on the squad at 265. Prepared for Rutgers at Irvington High School where he won letters in 1944-45. Lenz has been attending classes in the Newark colleges and has commuted twice-weekly to pre-season practice sessions.
- ROBERT LYMAN, business administration. Another of last year's varsity tackles who showed marked improvement late in the season. Lyman played two years at Hillside High School before the war, was a naval aviation cadet.
- ROBERT OCHS, physical education. Last season's tough luck victim. Was hurt on the opening kickoff of the Columbia game and was out for the remainder of the season. Won All-State honors at Highland Park High School before entering the Marine Corps. Participated in the island campaigns.
- OAKLEY PANDICK, physical education. Entered Rutgers last Fall and won varsity letter after having served as a combat infantry officer in New Guinea and the Philippines. Won All-State honors during his junior and senior years at Borden-town Military Academy before entering the service.
- EARL READ, history. Most promising of the new material at tackle. Starred at Phillipsburg High School before serving 29 months in the Merchant Marine. Reed captained his high school eleven in his senior year.
- FRANK THROPP, business administration. Now a junior, Thropp has been a starting varsity tackle ever since the first game of his freshman season. Thropp also is a two-year lacrosse letterman. May make strong bid for All-Eastern honors.

Guards

CHARLIE DI LIBERTI, education. Charlie, who was returning for his fourth season of varsity football, suffered a broken leg in a scrimmage two weeks before the opening of the season, ending his football career at Rutgers. He had been in the starting lineup for the past two years.

BOB HUBBARD, mechanical engineering. Bob has come up to the varsity from last Fall's freshman squad and is following in his father's footsteps as a varsity Rutgers gridder. Hubbard graduated from Haddonfield High in 1946 after winning two football letters.

MIKE KUSHINKA, physical education. Played steady ball last season as understudy Mike Verbitski, who has graduated. Won two varsity letters at Liberty High in Bethlehem, Pa., before entering the Navy. Served 20 months at sea as a pharmacist's mate.

PAUL OCHS, business administration. Younger brother of tackle Bob Ochs. Like his brother, he served in the Marines. Paul played jayvee ball last year as a center, has been switched back to the position at which he won All-State honors while at Highland Park High.

KEN OSINSKI, physical education. Won Rutgers numerals and varsity letters before the war, served 16 months at sea as a pharmacist's mate in the Coast Guard. Returned to Rutgers a year ago and won his second varsity letter last Fall.

JERRY RAPHEL, psychology. Another ex-Marine non-com. Jerry served 18 months in the Pacific, entered Rutgers last year, won jayvee football and varsity wrestling letters. Won two football letters at Boys High in Brooklyn.

ADAM SCRUPSKI, business administration. Scrupski moved up to the varsity squad last season after starting with the jayvees. The former Irvington High star also won his varsity wrestling letter last Winter.

JIM TAIGIA, physical education. Another ex-Navy man. Served overseas one year as a chief specialist. Jim starred at Highland Park High School before the war, saw action in every Rutgers game as a freshman last year.

ROY VALENTINE, physical education. Started as a fullback, was shifted last season to center and now is at guard. Before serving two years in the Army Air Forces, Valentine won All-State Prep School honors as a fullback at Bordentown Military Academy.

Centers

JAMES DUNN, physical education. A former teammate of Frank Burns and Herm Hering at Roselle Park High. Dunn won All-State honors in 1943, then entered the Navy for two years of service. Like Burns and Hering, he was a baseball star in high school.

ERNIE GARDNER, physical education. Starting center in most of last season's games, ex-major in Army Air Forces, married, father of a two-year-old daughter. All-State center while at North Plainfield High School. Brother of end Bob Gardner.

PAUL MAGEE, agriculture. Another newcomer to the Scarlet varsity. Magee won two letters at Haddonfield High, then entered the Naval V-5 program at the close of the war, coming to Rutgers upon receiving his discharge.

WALT TALAN, business administration. One of New Brunswick's contributions to the Scarlet varsity. Starred in high school, later earned wings in Army Air Forces, entered Rutgers following his discharge, alternated with Gardner at center last season. Married.

Quarterbacks

FRANK BURNS, physical education. Team's leading passer and greatest defensive back. Runs the "T", backs up line on defense. Threw 72 passes last season, completed 32 for nine touchdowns and a total of 513 yards. Honorable mention All-Eastern back last Fall. Teamed with Herm Hering at Roselle Park High school, won All-State honors in football, basketball, baseball. Has been the varsity catcher on the Rutgers nine for two years, is a powerful hitter.

AL MALEKOFF, physical education. One of smallest members of squad, but his vicious tackling earned him the nickname of "Boom". Played fullback last Fall, but is alternating between his old job and quarter this year. Won "player of the week" acclaim last season by long returns of pass interceptions to set up both touchdowns in Harvard upset.

JERRY SALEK, English. Another of last year's freshman players who has moved up to the varsity. Played three years at Oak Park, Ill., High School, then served in Navy for nearly two years. Likes such outdoor pursuits as mountain climbing, skiing and riding.

BILLY VIGH, business administration. A senior who has been all over the Rutgers backfield. Began as a right halfback, saw some action last Fall at fullback, now is being groomed at quarter. Won Rutgers baseball letters in 1943 and '47, with time out for three years in the Infantry.

Left Halfbacks

DICK CRAMER, education. Versatile speedster who has starred in three college sports. Now in his third season of varsity grid play. Cramer is the fastest man on the squad. Holds Middle Atlantic sprint titles and starred on Coach Fred Fitch's lacrosse varsity as a freshman.

HERM HERING, physical education. Broke into starting lineup after first game last season knocked out two men ahead of him. Developed sensationally, led Scarlet ground-gainers with a total of 528 yards, an average of 7.8 per attempt. Leading scorer with 80 points. Played with Burns at Roselle Park High, won All-State honors in football, baseball.

ART MANN, physical education. Entered Rutgers in 1945 following discharge from Army Air Corps, won berth as starting left half, voted "most improved player" at end of '45 campaign, out of action virtually all of last season following injury in opening game. Won Air Medal while flying P-38's in Italy. Married a year ago.

BERGE PARIGIAN, business administration. Another injury victim of last year's opening game. A former All-State star from St. Benedict's Prep in Newark, he was a combat flier in Europe during the war. Is again showing the promise which won him a starting position last Fall against Columbia.

HENRY PRYOR, political science. Pryor saw limited action last season, may come into his own this year. Won All-State honors at Columbia High in Maplewood before leaving for 2½ years in Marine Corps. Served in Pacific.

Right Halfbacks

HARVEY GRIMSLEY, physical education. Started last season on Jayvee squad, worked up to varsity, starred in Harvard game, had starting job from then on, was voted "most improved player" at close of season. Slippery runner, veteran of two years overseas as staff sergeant with Army Service Forces.

LEON KLEIN, pre-medical. Played jayvee ball in 1943, entered Infantry, received Purple Heart, returned to play varsity ball in 1945. Starred on last season's 150-pound eleven, has been brought back to the varsity. Lightest man on squad at 155.

STEVE SENKO, physical education. Versatile athlete now entering his third season of varsity play. Also has won two varsity letters in both basketball and baseball, having been in the starting lineup in all games of both sports since he was a freshman.

IRWIN WINKELRIED, business administration. Started about half of last season's games as a freshman. Entered Rutgers following discharge as a flight officer from Army Air Forces. Starred at South Side High in Newark before war, won All-City honors. Is an honor student.

Fullbacks

JOHN HIPOLIT, business administration. Hipolit is now in his third season of football at Rutgers. After winning All-State honors at Bound Brook High School in 1943, he entered Rutgers, earned his varsity letter in '44, then left for a year in the service. Last season he was hampered by a recurring injury but now appears to be in good condition.

BOB MAYNE, education. Mayne is another varsity letterman who saw considerable action last season as a reserve. At 205, he is the heaviest of the fullback candidates, has a vicious initial charge and is a good backer-up on defense.

MALCOLM McLAREN, geology. Son of the great "Trampy" McLaren who starred with Coach Harman at Pitt. Developed rapidly last season, playing on a Friday with the freshman eleven, graduating to the junior varsity for Saturday's game and finding himself on the varsity squad the following week.

JOHN SABO, economics. Sabo a varsity player last season at St. Bonaventure, worked at right halfback during Spring training with the Scarlet but has been switched to fullback. Sabo was an All-City player at East Side High in Newark before entering the Navy in 1943.

Lou Little, Master Strategist

Now entering his eighteenth consecutive season, Lou Little has been coaching Columbia's football teams since 1930 and ranks, in point of service, as the senior coach in the Ivy League. Little graduated from Penn in 1920, after gaining national recognition as a tackle in 1916 and 1919. Between those years he served as an officer in the American forces in France. Returning he completed his college course, played and coached professional football, then went to Georgetown in 1924 as head coach of football. Two years later he was named director of athletics, holding both positions until 1930 when he went to Columbia. Little's first five seasons at the Lion helm were outstanding and included the sensational Rose Bowl victory over Stanford in 1934. Between 1935 and 1944, Little failed to produce really great teams, but he maintained his reputation as a resourceful strategist. In 1945 he introduced the "winged T" and led his eleven to a record of 8 wins and one loss. Little's all-time record at Columbia includes 77 wins, 61 losses and nine ties.

ABOUT COACH TOM DAVIES

Davies earned a brilliant reputation in the twenties at the University of Pittsburgh and is regarded as one of the greatest backs the game of football has produced. During 25 years of coaching he has been at Allegheny College, Pittsburgh, Rochester and Scranton. He has been in his present capacity at Reserve since 1941.

ABOUT RUTGERS UNIVERSITY—1766-1947

Rutgers, an institution which started as a struggling colonial college 10 years before the Revolution, has developed into a modern state university with a constantly expanding student body, guided by a program of teaching and research which is designed to broaden our understanding and improve the world in which we live.

Founded in 1766 by a group of visionary Dutch pioneers, Rutgers originally was called Queen's College under a charter granted by King George III of England. The struggling young college's existence was threatened by the Revolutionary War, but growth followed that conflict, just as unprecedented expansion has been experienced since the last World War.

Rutgers was given its present name in 1825 after generous grants had been received from Colonel Henry Rutgers, a New York philanthropist. Forty years later, the school was designated the Land Grant College of New Jersey, the liberal arts course of study was enlarged, and courses leading to bachelor degrees in agriculture and engineering were added.

In 1902 a department of ceramics was established. New Jersey College for Women, a separate institution with its own campus in New Brunswick, was established in 1918, the School of Education was added in 1923, and in 1925 the Extension Division for non-degree education and the School of Journalism were established. The New Jersey College of Pharmacy was incorporated in the University in 1927. University College, degree-granting evening division, was established in 1934, and Newark University was merged with Rutgers in July of 1946. In 1945, the State Legislature brought all divisions of Rutgers within the designation of the State University of New Jersey.

"BIG ED" DANOWSKI

Edward F. Danowski now is beginning his second season as Ram gridiron coach. After starring in Fordham's backfield in the early thirties, he played professional football until 1939 when he took up coaching. With the outbreak of war, he entered the Naval Reserve and rose to the rank of lieutenant commander. Following his release from active duty, he went to Rose Hill as head coach of football.

THE RUTGERS STADIUM

Beautiful Rutgers Stadium is the heart of a million-dollar athletic plant which is situated on the University Heights campus.

The Stadium area embraces 270 acres of gently rolling hills. Facilities, in addition to the Stadium itself, include a nine-hole golf course, varsity and practice baseball diamonds, six gridiron-type playing fields and two varsity practice gridirons.

Seating capacity of the Stadium is 23,000. The field is of turtle back construction and is surrounded by a track modelled after the Olympic oval in Los Angeles. Considered one of the best tracks in the nation, it is made up of eight lanes on the curves and backstretch with a 12-lane, 220-yard straightaway.

The stands are of reinforced concrete with wooden seats. Running the full length of the East stands is a modern field house which contains dressing rooms and offices. The West stands are crowned by a well-equipped press box providing accommodations for more than 100 writers with complete telegraph and telephone connections. At both ends of the press box are glass enclosed broadcasting booths, topped by platforms for photographers.

Ivy Williamson, A Newcomer

Ivan H. Williamson, for 12 years an assistant coach at Yale, succeeds Hooks Mylin as head football mentor at Lafayette. Williamson captained the undefeated, untied Michigan eleven of 1932 and started coaching the following year when he piloted Roseville, Mich., High School through an unbeaten campaign. He joined the Yale staff in 1934 and remained there, with three years out during the war, until accepting his present position. During the war he was assistant to Coach Patsy Clark at Pensacola Air Station. Williamson was a lieutenant commander at the time of his discharge.

Hooks Mylin At New Post

Edward E. Mylin comes to NYU from Lafayette to succeed Jack Weinheimer, who resigned last December after three seasons as head coach of the Violets. Mylin has a long and successful record as a college coach. He served as head coach at Lebanon Valley from 1923 to 1933, was at Bucknell from 1934-36, and then went to Lafayette where he remained until last Winter, with time out for three years while he was engaged in war service. Mylin produced undefeated teams at Lafayette in 1937 and 1940.

BRIEF FACTS ABOUT RUTGERS FOOTBALL

Rutgers color—Scarlet.

Rutgers nicknames—The Scarlet, The Queensmen.

Rutgers All-Americans—Rutgers has produced two All-Americans, Paul Robeson and Homer Hazel, during its 78 years of football. Robeson, one of the greatest of all Negro athletes, who since has become a leading singer and actor, was named an All-American end by Walter Camp in 1918. Hazel won similar fame as an end in 1923 and as a fullback in 1924, an honor accorded to only two other All-Americans.

Undefeated Rutgers Team—The 1872 eleven defeated Columbia twice in the only games played that season.

Worst Rutgers Record—The 1901 team lost seven straight games.

Longest Rutgers Winning Streak—The longest unbroken string of victories in Rutgers football history began after the 25-6 defeat by N. Y. U. in mid-season of 1938. Five straight triumphs followed, and in 1939 the unblemished string was extended to 13 before Brown toppled the Scarlet in the season's final encounter, 13-0. The record includes a scoreless tie with Richmond in 1939.

Oldest Rutgers Rivals—Rutgers' oldest football rivalry is with Princeton, dating back to America's first intercollegiate football game in 1869. Football relations were inaugurated with Columbia the following year. The Scarlet has met Lehigh more than any other rival. With 45 games in the series, Rutgers holds an edge over the Engineers with 24 victories, 20 losses and one tie. Lafayette and Rutgers have met on 42 occasions, Lafayette winning 26, losing 15 and tying one. Princeton and Rutgers have clashed 36 times, Princeton winning all but two games.

Brothers—Two sets of brothers are on the 1947 Rutgers varsity. Bob and Paul Ochs formerly played at Highland Park High School, then joined Marine Corps. Ernie and Bob Gardner formerly played at North Plainfield High. Ernie was in Army Air Forces, Bob in the Marines.

Fastest Men on Squad—Dick Cramer, by the clock, is the fastest. Twice last spring he romped the 100-yard dash in 9.9 seconds. In full football togs, however, End Bucky Hatchett has been edging out Cramer in sprints down the length of the field.

Smallest Man on Squad—Leon Klein, five-foot eight-inch, 155-pound senior. Klein, after playing varsity football in 1945, starred on last season's 150-pound eleven. Klein all but lost his feet by frostbite during the war, found that football activity restored circulation upon his return to Rutgers from the Army.

Largest Man on Squad—Tackle Carl Lenz, Lenz tips the scales at 260, is agile considering his size. He is a newcomer to the squad and commuted to pre-season training from Newark where he was attending classes during the summer.

Rutgers Captain—Game captains are appointed by Coach Harvey Harman prior to each game. At the end of the season, the squad votes to select an honorary captain for the past season. Charlie DiLiberti, senior guard, was accorded this honor last year.

Rutgers Training Camp—Rutgers, returning to its pre-war haunts, spent pre-season training at the New Jersey National Guard camp at Sea Girt on the New Jersey shore.

Rutgers Football Office—Located off the left side of the foyer on the ground floor of the gymnasium on College Avenue in New Brunswick.
